Final Fantasy II Armor

Any of the armor in Final Fantasy II can be used by all characters. The oddity in this section is the shield. Though anyone can wear the, they cannot if they are using a bow. Also rather than the defense and the weight being shown in the table, I give the block and defense. The block shows how many time you can block an attack/round with the shield. You need to equip a piece of armor, and continuously use it in battle. When this happens, your proficiency with that particular armor type goes up. Always remember to try and upgrade as soon as you get to a place with new armor available to you. Help out the melee attackers first, before going to the back row.
